

Facebook Post Text July 9th 2016

I posted the following in a response to a reply to a video I put through from my (private) news feed from a Facebook Friend to my public feed. I wanted to re-post this as a stand alone statement as I want this to be read on it's own:

Not saying that Blacks aren't more likely to get shot in any given situation, and, of course, not saying there is not general racism, but, ANY politician or LEADER of ANY color uses events to further themselves. Black Leaders included.

The real dangers as I see it is Psychopaths that will use all means without conscience to get maintain and further their power. My goal is to look past the red herrings thrown up to distract and direct all groups, as one would categorize them, to miss the real architects of unrest.

If the US people were united against PSYCHOPATHY in Power, we could swept them out in one election cycle. Must keep people divided and pointing at each other.

My question is what do Blacks, Whites, Men, Women, Gays, Muslims, Christians, Jews, Gentiles, Democrats and Republicans all have in common? They ALL have PSYCHOPATH Leaders. Devoid of empathy and only focusing on their power. How to keep it, and how to get more. And once they get more, and feel secure, that can unleash more horror then a "normal person" can even imagine. Sex Slaves, Child sacrifices, Political based Wars killing millions of civilians, and the more long term sinister GMO, World Trade Deals.

We have to focus on EVIL not the color, nationality or religion is comes in.

When I "assess" one as a potential threat or ally (a.k.a- profiling) it is not by race, gender, political party or religion (or lack thereof). It is by the relationship between what is said and what is done; by what they say the action will do, and what is actually it does. Another way to put it, is hypocrisy.

This is not including someone who is deluded and drinks his own Koolaid. I think we all have done that without malice at some times in our lives; and sometimes people get hurt. We see the errors, apologize and help if we can, and we change and grow our understanding of the world and move on.

I am referring to those who either will not "grow/change" (pigheaded ignorance) or actually embrace their hypocrisy as a tool to get a desired result (a liar). These can cause harm and should be addressed or avoided as the situation calls for.

If we think one race, gender, party or religion is immune to this, we become deluded and help to further ignorance and cause harm.

I question EVERYTHING and EVERYONE, including, especially, myself. It has been the center of my show (Feet to the Fire Radio) for over a decade. No Sacred Cows. No topics or questions are off limits if they are addressed/asked in the true spirit of seeing Truth (better stated Reality) with respect and honesty.

I also realize no one has it all. So I can take the baby out of the bathwater before throwing out the bathwater. My goal is seeking what is Real (A.K.A. Truth). So, I can listen to and learn from one who has points good and discard the rest, rather than ignoring the person outright.

It is one of the tactics used by Psychopaths to cover their tracks. A person may be onto something, and the psychopath will focus on, distort; even lie to distract someone from the nugget of Reality from taking root.

I goal is to avoid the distractions in search of that nugget.
